The Postal Service

... We suggest you to use pen and paper again.

What was the last time you received a handwritten letter or postcard?

Synopsis

Nowadays when we rarely write letters, these tireless, old postmen are determined to accomplish a tremendous feat: The citizens of your city shall write and send letters to one another. You may receive an anonymous note, a certified mail, a telegram... Here comes the mail full of surprises!

Itinerant and participatory show suitable to all kinds of public. A team of postmen and postwomen are ready to start their workday with their uniforms and their bicycles. They will deliver letters, telegrams, postcards, prizes etc. This old postal service allows people to use pen and paper again to send a handwritten message to anyone near them. You don't need to know the address because the letter will reach its recipient among the audience. Thus, creating a mail game and message sending among the public. The postmen and postwomen will take care of everything: Pen and paper will be available and they will make sure that your handwritten message is delivered to the right person.
